

EDITORIAL NOTE

Dear Readers,

It is with immense pleasure and pride that I welcome you to the inaugural edition of SIES Journal of Humanities published by our college. This publication marks the beginning of an exciting journey for our academic community, a platform where ideas converge, creativity thrives, and voices are heard. Our journal is more than just a collection of articles and essays; it is a testament to the intellectual curiosity and dedication that define our college.

The theme for our first edition, "Indian society: Culture Literature and Cinema" is a celebration of distinctiveness of our land. We have created a unique place for ourselves with respect to Indian Culture, Indian literature and Indian cinema among the world readers. Each piece in this edition reflects the diverse interest of the writers' offering insights into a wide range of subjects.

As we embark on this journey, we are reminded of the power of beginning to inspire change and innovate. Launching this journal has been a collaborative effort, and I would like to extend my heartfelt gratitude to everyone who contributed to making this dream a reality. To our talented writers, thank you for sharing your knowledge, insights, and creativity. Your work is the heart of this journal, and we are honoured to feature it. To our dedicated editorial team, your hard work and commitment have been instrumental in bringing this edition to life. Your attention to detail and passion for excellence are evident on every page.

As we turn the pages of this first edition, we invite you, our readers, to engage with the content, share your thoughts, and become part of this vibrant academic community. Your feedback and participation are crucial as we strive to make this journal a dynamic and inclusive platform for all. I am excited about the journey ahead and look forward to the growth and evolution of this research journal in the coming years. I am sure it shall reach readers across the globe. May this inaugural edition be the first of many, each one better and more inspiring than the last.

Thank you for joining us at the start of this adventure.

Warm regards & Best wishes

Dr. Uma Maheswari Shankar
